Select Wall Street Research Updates and Commentary

Update from Morgan Stanley, June 2020

Docu Sign.

COVID-19 is becoming an accelerant to adoption of the Agreement Cloud: DocuSign expects these benefits to sustain post-pandemic. The company reported $342.1 million in billings for F1Q21 and grew by 59% Y/Y, the biggest billings beat in the company's public history. Customer growth count increased to 661K, an increase of 30% y/y. Net Revenue Retention (NRR) ticked up to 119% in the quarter. Operating margins of 7.8% were ahead of us/consensus while FCF of $32.8 million was above our estimate. As we see much of the upside already priced in, we remain EW, but increase our PT to $133.

Update from Citi, August 2020

CERIDIAN

Underlying demand for the HCM suite in mid to large businesses is holding up, but the near-term uncertainty lies with implementation duration, which typically takes 6-9 months to translate into sub revenue. We continue to see CDAY as having the most drivers to re-accelerate growth in 2021, which is why we are recommending the stock, but consistent with our past view, it will get worse in Q3 before it gets better in Q4 given the lag in realized lower employment and slower client go-lives.

Update from Morgan Stanley, June 2020

ıntuıt

Despite the remaining uncertainty, we see TurboTax well positioned to capitalize on the trends driving this tax season, particularly the accelerated shift towards DIY filing driven by COVID-19. However, significant uncertainty remains: 1) whether tax stores and accountant office space reopens, 2) whether the filing deadline may be further extended, and 3) how consumer filer behavior of ~20 million unemployed Americans will be affected. Although we see TurboTax as well positioned to execute to its 9- 10% pre-COVID Consumer Tax growth guidance (withdrawn with Q3 results), a premium PEG ratio despite material SMB exposure with QuickBooks keeps us on the sidelines for now.

Update from BMO, July 2020

The scale of unemployment has had a significant impact on business trends, with pays per control down 10% y/y, net bookings down 50% y/y, and retention down 200 bps y/y. Conditions are stable though the recovery is plateauing. In the longer term, changes in the economy should continue to drive demand for HCM and PEO. In the short term, margins will be impacted by lower client interest and investments to position the company for the recovery, which is expected in F2H21. We reduce our estimates and target price.

Update from Oppenheimer, May 2020

teradata.

For Q1, revenue of $434 million fell shy of the consensus estimate, while non-GAAP EPS of $0.27 came in ahead of the consensus $0.23E. The second half of March saw significant deal postponements which penalized Q1. Due to COVID-19 uncertainty, Teradata withdrew FY20 guidance. At the same time, the company is making progress driving adoption of its platform and completing its shift to a subscription-based model. We maintain our Perform rating. On a side note, the company has appointed Steve McMillan President and CEO, and a member of the Board of Directors, effective June 8, 2020.
